Speaking of THE 400

- After-Dinner Sings
- New White House
- Crimson Felt

That winter weather last Friday created a "Snowbound" situation in Comstock parlor, or do they do it all the time? Instead of apples, it was fellows sputtering in a row before the hearth with another bunch of gals and guys around Marion Swanson at the piano.

It's been rain aplenty down state in Jordan but it didn't seem to dampen the old Dragon spirit of Lucy Thalman, '42 grad who is teaching there. She came through in one week with a contribution of $5 for the student center and a request for the Western MISTIC (also paid for).

MSTC's white house moves to 1301 Fifth ave S this week. The Snarrs have been living at 524 S Tenth st.

Carl Peltoniemi is getting all set to yell again tonight after almost recuperating from Monday. Carl is an ardent exponent of chatter, more yells and organized cheering.

We saw a swell idea on Clayton Tandberg, ex-student, the other morning. Evidently still loyal to MSTC, he's wearing a cast off crimson felt on his head. Looks fightin'.

Apple Pie Charts 4-H Champ's Course; Rapid Cookbook-Textbook Change Made

By Naomie Strom

"Can she bake an apple pie, Billy boy, Billy boy?" If SHE can't, pleasant, well-mannered Joyce Anderson can. Others may fret and frown when asked politely to bake a little something for the family crockery, but not this freshman. Her two-year college course is being financed on one pie. Can't you imagine eating a hundred-dollar luscious apple pie? This one was an aristocrat, too. In fact, it won the apple pie baking contest at the Minnesota state fair.

For you girls who can't even boil water, or to you undomesticated boys, this may seem a tremendous achievement—and it is. But for Hawley's Joyce Anderson, state championships are old stories. Why, as far back as 1936, her canning exhibit won first at both the state fair and at the Chicago International Livestock show.

Three years later, as a result of winning the state bread baking contest, Miss Anderson received a pleasure trip to the Chicago International event.

Last year she was state champion health demonstrator.

Where did she learn all this? Well, she's never had home economics but

Students Pick Onions, Spuds For War Work

Two hundred thirty-eight students will begin wholesale work on the local onion and potato crops next week, instead of Friday and Monday, as previously announced. The bulletin board will carry the exact dates, Dr. J. R. Schwendeman, organizer, stated.

The faculty council in meeting Wednesday morning decided that the urgency of the situation warranted the closing of school for two days. Provision for making up classwork will be made by holding school during the MEA meeting in late October and on the Saturday preceding Thanksgiving.

Making a tangible contribution to the nation's war effort from the food standpoint, students will occupy themselves with picking potatoes and topping beets and onions.

The cold weather of last week cut in before the larger part of the crop was gathered. The vegetables are recovering slowly.

Twenty-five college men worked Wednesday and Thursday afternoons hauling onions. Dr. Schwendeman urges all those interested in working in the fields during the weekend to contact him.

Classes will be in session Monday according to schedule.

Dildine Heads Planning Group

Dr. Glenn C. Dildine was named head of the central committee for planning of the student center, at the last commission meeting.

The committee, which is to investigate materials for the center, consists of Mr. Nels Johnson, Mr. Henry Weltzin, Tony Malfeo, Staples, George Scanlon, Seattle, Wash., and Maynard Reynolds, Moorhead. Cooperating with the committee, the art department has been working on different plans that may be used.

George Scanlon reports that the drive for center fund contributions has reached the $300 mark. The goal, however, being $400, the drive will be extended to Wednesday, October 7.

College Men, Notice!

Bennet Meets With Students Oct. 7

All men of the colleges are urged by Dr. C. P. Lura to attend a meeting with the joint military advisory board on Wednesday afternoon, October 7, at 1:30 in room 236.

The board, headed by First Lieutenant Glen L. Bennet, consists of five members representing the army ground forces, the army air force, the navy V-1 and navy V-7 programs, the navy V-5 program, the marine corps. One of the naval officers will also represent the coast guard.

After the adjournment of the general meeting, each of the five officers she's been a 4-H member and a very active one for nine years. During this time she's been engaged in forty-two projects. This year she participated in cooking, canning, gardening, home beautification, baby beef, and health activity projects. She thinks 4-H club activities are "splendid."

Busy? You bet she's busy but then she always was. Now, however, as a college student, she lays down the cookbook and takes up the textbook, at least on week days.

"Liberry" Shelves Start Rumors

A truck drove to the far end of MacLean hall and began to deposit little bundles of sticks upon the boulevard. Three men—one in dark important looking apparel—held a conference on the lawn with suppressed gestures and dire glances to the side.

Speculations as to their purpose became wild and rampant—a new mildew hall—the beginning of the student center—a hut for torturing students who forget to bring library books back—Oh perhaps complicated lattice work for climbing vines. However, the man in the dark important looking apparel raised his hand to silence the unfounded rumors, removed his hat with due reverence and stated in a husky voice, "The library is to have new shelves."

Scholarship Is Deciding Factor

Should the reserves be called? With this question in mind, coffee-drinkers at the first coffee forum of the year, held last Monday, met in informal but informative discussion.

The general opinion expressed was that members of the reserves are contributing a great deal more by training here to be specialists, of which the army is markedly in need, than by entering any of the services now.

One of the questions raised was this: if the reserves are called now will they go into officer's training? In Dr. Lura's opinion, the answer to this question rests with the individual. "The biggest single recommendation for any reserves will be high scholarship," Dr. Lura told the forum. "The navy program emphasizes scholarship while the army program has only mentioned it, but high scholarship will be a great advantage to anyone in any reserve." Dr. Lura also stated that if reserves are taken soon it will probably be on a compromise basis. Constant inspection of marks can be expected and those whose marks are down may be forced to go into active service.

will meet in separate classrooms with interested students for consultation and questions pertinent to their enlistment in the reserve branches. The following rooms will be used: army ground forces, room 236; army air forces room 303; navy V-1 and V-7, room 328; navy V-5, room 205; marine corps, room 202; and coast guard to be indicated in general meeting.

Dr. C. P. Lura has been appointed faculty representative of all the armed services at Moorhead State Teachers college by Rear Admiral Randall Jacobs, chairman of joint army and navy personnel board.

Although each military service has its own distinctive qualifications for enlistments, all candidates must be American citizens, regularly enrolled, full-time resident student in the school where application is made. They may be either single or married. Eighteen years is the minimum age in most of the service branches but some exceptions are made. Maximum age limits range from 26 years to 44 years, inclusive. Application will not be accepted from any student who has received notice of his impending induction. Every candidate must be qualified educationally, physically, morally and psychologically for appointment to an officer candidate school. Every enlistment must be for the duration plus six months. Selection for enlistment in any of the service plans will be determined chiefly by scholastic records and potential qualities of leadership.

No regular academic course of study, except possibly for those enlisted in the navy is prescribed, but certain very definite objectives are to be attained. When an enlisted reservist is called to active duty, his major in college as well as personal qualifications will determine his assignment to further training, which will be highly specialized and concentrated into a minimum time period.

In the establishment of the programs for college students, the respective branches of the armed forces expect to have a reservoir from which they may draw as the exigencies of the war demand.

MSTC Council Announces Reopening of Registration

Legion Conclave Is Kise's Topic

Chapel-goers next Wednesday, October 7, will hear Dr. Joseph Kise, professor of political science, describe his recent trip to the national American Legion convention in St. Louis, Missouri.

Dr. Kise, past state commander of the Legion, will discuss the prominent speakers at the convention, among whom were Colonel Frank Knox, secretary of the navy; Paul V. McNutt, chairman of the war man-power committee; Robert P. Patterson, assistant secretary of war, and Lewis Johnson, who recently returned from India.

This year's convention, the twenty-fourth, was without the usual fanfare, as only delegates and business leaders of the Legion participated in the event.

Dragon Staff "Shoots" Campus

Individual photographs for the class section of the Dragon are being scheduled at present by Max Powers, Lake City, yearbook editor, and his staff. Campus scenes are being shot this week by Shirley Strand, Gary, staff photographer, with a snapshot contest scheduled for a future date.

Scrap for the war program is being salvaged from old yearbook engravings by staff volunteers who strip the metal plates from the wooden blocks on which they are mounted.

McGarity Forms Campus Orchestra

The campus music department is no longer orchestra-less, with an organized personnel of 22 members reporting for practice, states Bertram McGarity, director, from his Weld hall podium.

Wind instruments and horns are plentiful in the present line-up, but Mr. McGarity notes a lack of strings, in spite of response to last week's plea in the MISTIC. Violin, viol, and cello players are at a premium.

Lura Begins Eighth Term for Schoolmen

Dr. C. P. Lura, MSTC dean of men, will again serve as secretary of the Schoolmasters' Study club. He was re-elected for his eighth term at the group's meeting in Detroit Lakes last Wednesday night. Others chosen were Carl Solberg, Barnesville, president, and C. H. Bachstrom, Hitterdal, vice president.

That prospective students at MSTC will have the opportunity to enroll in the middle of this fall quarter is the decision of the faculty council which met Monday at 8 a. m. in the president's office.

President Snarr pointed out that doubtless many didn't enroll earlier because of the urgency of farm work and perhaps for other reasons.

As a result of the decision, students entering then may begin work October 19 on certain courses. They will be able to earn from eight to ten quarter hours of credit with the understanding that work already covered will be made up under supervision of instructors.

Because the state requires a payment of tuition to the amount of $10 per quarter, no reduction can be made in tuition. However, a reduction will be made in the activity fee.

Present students acquainted with persons interested in this opportunity are urged to contact them at once.

In our times, in these times, an apathetic outlook concerning our individual part in our nation's effort should and must be eradicated. Dogmatic? No, not at all. This is merely a viewpoint obtained from a common reckoning of the part our nation must play in this kaleidoscopic chaos.

But one might ask—just what can we do, how shall we lend our efforts for success? What can we as America's students accomplish? But of more importance to us, what can MSTC students do?

Maynard Reynolds, Max Powers, Ruth Carlson, and Leonard Johnson attempt to answer some of these questions. They can partially point out the new conditions with which we shall have to orient ourselves.

Maynard has this to say: "The one immediate thing MSTC students can do is to cooperate fully with the community on War Demonstration day, October 11. All the educational institutions of the city will be expected to contribute much to this demonstration, especially to the parade. Our part will particularly call for the cooperation of the band, first aiders, air raid wardens and the reserves."

With regard to publications Max Powers points out: "Students have access to the supplies of both college publications, and it seems that care should be exercised in their use. For example, writing paper, carbon paper, and office stationery could be conserved, and in this way expenses could be cut. Students should realize that because of war time conditions expenses have been drastically reduced in all phases of college education and that the best way that students can help the war effort is to be satisfied with economy measures of the yearbook and paper."

This problem of military physical education by Leonard Johnson: "The college's military physical education program, while rather strenuous to those who are not accustomed to physical exertion, is yet appreciated by the men enlisted in the army or navy reserves, since it will make the active service training much easier. It does take that one hour from the day's schedule, but considering the fact that the physical standards of college men will be raised minimizes this disadvantage."

And to summarize our attitudes, Ruth Carlson: "If this is to be a war of 'survival of the fittest,' let's hope we're among them. But do more than hope; make sure that we are. Be strong, be brave, be sincere in every effort, for we must put forth the necessary effort. No one else will do it for us!

"These are the things we are able to do: to cooperate, to readjust our mental attitude, and to build our personal morale. This is vital!"

—Jean Rutkowski.

Johnson On Concordia

Vows were spoken by Shirley Janke of Ferguson Falls and Lieut. Roy Olson in the Lutheran parsonage at Anniston, Alabama, September 6. Mrs. Olson is a former student of MSTC.

The marriage of Lillian Sjoquist, formerly of Fargo, and T. W. Smith of Santa Paula, Calif., took place at Las Vegas, Nev., Sept. 19. The bride is a graduate of MSTC, took further work at Santa Barbara State Teachers' college and has been instructor in the Santa Paula schools. They are at home at 101 Wilson court, Santa Paula.

Margaret Johnson, grad of '37, is new women's physical education instructor at Concordia college. During the summer she was in charge of the city's recreation project sponsored by the American Legion Auxiliary.

La Voy Brown, of Embden, N. D., and Herbert Horgeshiemer of the same city were married at the bride's home, June 21.

June 24 was the date for the marriage of Mildred Casperson to James O. Foss at Walcott, N. D. Mrs. Foss, an MSTC grad, taught at Glencoe and Mr. Foss is affiliated with NDAC.

body in his right mind know that the matter of an attack in Europe is a complicated military problem to be solved by the men in charge? And does it tell arm-chair strategists that they are talking for their own amusement . . . take the Prime Minister of England to and that it might be just as well to turn off the current. However, let's put it down in black and white . . . the obvious. No private citizen (even special emissaries) and probably few military men are in possession of enough reliable information to draw any intelligent conclusion on the matter. It isn't that we don't have a ight to speak, it is merely that we don't know. Reliable news in peacetime and in war are two different matters.

As a matter of fact, why talk about "second" fronts. I can count five or six now; Stalingrad, Egypt, the Solomons, the Aleutians, Madagascar, the open sea . . . Anyone speculating on the "second front" should ponder hard whether he is more valuable as a silent observer or as an animated smoke screen of fabulous rumor.—A.E.W.

Alums Come Back in Uniform

Through letters and news items MSTC hears about former students and alums who are serving in the armed forces of the United States.

Clarence Bjork, a 1941 graduate, writes that he left the Great Lakes naval station May 28 and was sent to a school on the campus of Texas A and M, where he graduated from the naval course four weeks ago. He is now located at the aviation radio material school, Word Island, Corpus Christi, Texas. Clarence, a math and social studies major, received a fellowship from the University of Ohio, where he did graduate work until he went into the navy.

Floyd Ellison, a 1934 graduate, is now at the United States naval training station, Great Lakes, Illinois, training new Bluejackets in the physical hardening program. Before going to Great Lakes, he took a period of training at the naval training station at San Diego, California.

Mr. and Mrs. Louis DuCharme (Monica McCarty) of Barnesville were among spectators at the Dragon-Cobber game Monday. They were married at St. Anthony of Padua church in Fargo, June 15.

Eleanor Payseno of Moorhead, former student, became the bride of Lieut. Elmer Roswick at Meriden, Miss., July 30. Lieut. Roswick is stationed at Key field.

An MSTC graduate and former member of the Kindred faculty, Marie Sandager was married to Warren Skow at Yuma, Arizona, June 14.

Lillian Bowhall of Hendrum, two-year 1941, was married to Lieut. Alfred Holte at a ceremony in the Lutheran church at Hendrum, Sept. 12. They will be at home at Fort Ord, Calif., where he is an instructor.

A future Dragon, Craig Kent Wallace, made his appearance at Miller hospital, St. Paul, September 28. He is the new son of Adelpia Brackley Wallace (two-year '31) and Bill Wallace, who is connected with a Twin City broadcasting concern.

Ballard's "Cut"

Takes Rap At Jap

Taking a knock at the Japs in a strange method is Mr. C. A. Ballard, retired MSTC science instructor.

Government regulations started it all. In the past few days Dragon staff members (only the faithful) have been prying zinc and copper plates off wood blocks in an attempt to help out on the shortage of these essential materials. Mr. B. D. Murray was elected to pick out the obsolete "cuts" to be turned in and ran into this one of Mr. Ballard. Thinking that the "cut" might be a personal possession, the English department head brought it over to Mr. Ballard for final disposal.

But Mr. Ballard sent it back directly, saying that he'd rather see the lead thrown at the Japs.

And not incidentally, Mr. Henry Weltzin and his boys put in a lot of work on the prying project. Max Powers, Dragon editor, estimates that 200 pounds (excluding Mr. Ballard's likeness) were sent to the Dakota Photo Engraving company at Fargo to meet the Wednesday deadline.

I really don't know what approach to use this week. Not after what I said last week. And look what happened! Any way, it was only one-eleventh my fault. (If you don't catch on, I'd appreciate it very much.) MSTC lost. And by a pretty decisive score. But let's not put the clamps on the team for just one game. There were certain circumstances that didn't exactly favor us. First and foremost was the fact that Concordia had one game to the better of us. They were tried and they found their weaknesses and remedied them. Second —our offense was built largely around two stalwart guards; one of them, Joe DeMars, was in the lineup for only a short time. And too, we must not forget that Concordia hasn't exactly a slouch team. Grande and Lutness did some fine ball carrying. There was some pretty nice ball carrying on the Dragon squad also. Hurricane Harry Fielder carried the pig skin over many a rough yard, and some yardage was rolled off by the rest of the leather packers, too. The blocking wasn't any too good,, as most every one could see.

But that was last Monday night, so let's forget about it. This Friday evening at 8:00 p. m. the Dragons make their conference debut, pitted against the ferocious Duluth Bulldogs. Big things are expected and big things are to be done. Last week I begged for support on the sidelines. Did we get it? Yes—in a way—but Concordia had half as many again as we did. We can certainly do better than that so let's all get to the game Friday night at 8:00 p. m.

Tuesday night when I was working uptown some of the Concordia squad came in and and got to talking about the game. One of the players asked if we had any injuries on the team as a result of Monday's game. I replied that I didn't think so. "That's funny," he says, "I distinctly remember jumping on someone's stomach." At the mention of stomach I remembered that Deike was rather gingerly wrapping tape around his waist. Someone asked him what he was doing. "Aw," Marv says, "I'm just fixin' it so I can't eat so much. They're gettin' awful stingy over at that dorm."

By DON SCHLATTMAN
Who said anything about quitting? Some of the student personnel have been passing phrases to the effect that the Dragons should hang up the football togs after that 19-0 shellacking at the hands of the Cobbers. Smile when you say that to the boys, or a well directed haymaker may be uncorked at your unfortunate pan. The battered Dragons have their dander up and that is not good for someone. It is tough luck for the Duluth lads, but they are going to be the losers in this little fray come tonight.

So the Dragons looked bad against the Cobbers. So what? All the Domek wolves needed was a game to show their weaknesses. We found that our pass defense smells, and the linemen played like old women at a sewing circle. Take it from the boys themselves, those errors are going to be corrected, and how. When the coaching staff rolls up its sleeves to expose those bulging biceps there is going to be fireworks that will make the fourth of July look as black as an eclipse of the moon. By the way, if the moon would be eclipsed during the current campaign, some of the Romeos might be able to concentrate on football. Then again I guess the boys feel that with all those would-be aviation cadets over at the cow college, times a wastin'.

That gang of ball hawks in the Cobber backfield spelled "no dice" for the Dragons. You have to hand it to the lugs, they knew which way the Dragon goal line was. The lads of the local institution who made trips from the battle grounds to the bench didn't think much of the Cobber line but the backfield was another thing.

Domek's demons were in such a bad mood after the game, that we expected the athletic fund to appropriate a little legal lettuce as bail in case any of the boys were tossed in the local Bastille for taking swings at the chins of victorious Cobbers.

Dragons were developing powerful chest muscles from opening their arms to welcome Cobber ball carriers. All they needed was a good sheep dog to drive the opposition into the fold. Some one on the end of the bench iell asleep and had a terrible nightmare, in which Dragon blockers were dismantling Cobber defenders with bone-crushing blocks. Too bad that he didn't wake up till after the game.

Hats off to the band and the guys and gals who loyally stuck to the team all through a bad game. The boys appreciate it no end, kids; so keep up the good work.

The 1942 edition of the Dragon football team dropped its opener on Monday night by a decisive 19-0 count to their inter-city rivals, the Cobbers. All right, there you have it. We lost. But that's all done and forgotten.

What is more important, and certainly more timely, is that tonight the team faces the Duluth Teachers' College Bulldogs in their second encounter of the season. And with the information we have, we'd say that it should be an entirely different story from the Concordia fray. Coaches Domek and Loy have ironed out some of the difficulties that were so apparent on Monday and the team is in comparatively good condition. No additional injuries were incurred in the Cobber tilt, but Glenn Johnson and Joe DeMars, who were injured in pre-season practice, are still not expected to see much action. DeMars, who played part time against the Cobbers, irritated his ankle in that game and plans to rest it this week if possible. Johnson has not been to practice for two weeks and his injury is such that he will probably be out for at least that much longer.

The power of the Duluth aggregation is more or less of an unknown quantity. They defeated the Dragons last year by a one-touchdown margin. They have played one game, as have the Dragons, but the score is not available.

We are sure of one thing, however, the Dragons are a better equipped ball club this week than they were on Monday and a much better showing is expected. So come one, come all, onion pickers included.

And now to return to the unpleasant details of the Cobber battle. Concordia carried the action most of the way with the Dragons making only one serious scoring threat. That came in the third period when they gained the Cobber four-yard line on two different occasions but couldn't push the ball over.

Lutness and Grande were the spark-plugs of the Cobber offensive, Grande making two touchdowns and Lutness one. The Cobbers reeled off 16 first downs to 8 for the Dragons.

Grande made his first touchdown on the fourth play of the game, cutting through center and racing 33 yards for the score. Their try-for point was spoiled by George Garven, freshman tackle, when he tackled Strand behind the scrimmage line.

Midway in the second period, Grande repeated, this time from the twelve yard mark and the try-for point was successful on a pass from Strand to Dale. Thus the half-time score stood at 13-0 for the Cobs.

In the third quarter the Dragons perked up to play their best ball. Fielder, Dragon fullback was the leading Dragon ground gainer in their drive toward the goal line. Bernard McGuire made a nice off-tackle run to put the ball on the Cobber twenty-eight yard line from where Fielder carried it to the four. The first play of the series gained nothing and the second one, an end run lost ten yards. Fielder fought his way back to the four again but the final play was unsuccessful.

The Cobbers's third touchdown came late in the final period when Lutness carried the ball over from the six yard stripe. Their try-for-point failed again.
